

GENDER BODIES & TECHNOLOGY April 22-24, 2010 ■ Roanoke, Virginia

Gender, Bodies & Technology An Interdisciplinary Conference

April 22-24, 2010

Roanoke, VA

Presented by the Women's and Gender Studies Program at Virginia Tech

Performance art and new media, in addition to more traditional paper presentations, will be used to explore how technologies, broadly defined, construct, reinforce and destabilize gendered bodies. The format is designed to be inclusive, provocative and sociable.

The conference includes an opening plenary address by Jennifer Terry; a luncheon keynote by Alondra Nelson; the premiere of Fig. 1, a solo performance on aging and body image by Mark Evans Bryan featuring Sue Ott Rowlands; and a plenary showcasing examples of new media and performance art that engage gender, bodies and technology through...gender, bodies and technology.

Join us at the beautiful and historic Hotel Roanoke.

The early bird registration deadline is March 1.
